

There's still time to request an in-person consultation meeting with Glasgow City Council's Food Growing Team! Please consider requesting a meeting to discuss the draft allotment rules and regulations. Deadline: Monday, 20 November 2023.

Galloping Inflation !

The new Draft Regulations expand the number of Allotment Regulations from 12 to 97. From a page and half of A5 paper in 1959 to 14 pages of A4 in 2023 – As a plotholder are you really going to be able to sign up to this level of micro-management and bureaucracy?

The Draft Regulations. Make sure you ask discuss what's reasonable and practical. Sign Up for a Chat with the Food Growing Team

Write (before November 20th) to glasgowfoodgrowing@glasgow.gov.uk

Subject: Draft Allotment Regulations Consultation

I would personally like to make representations about Glasgow's Draft Allotment Regulations to the Food Growing Team.

It would be helpful if you would let us know at GAFForum@gmail.com if you have requested a meeting and what you discussed. This type of information will help us during the GAF consultation meeting as well as during other meetings with GCC representatives, politicians and the media.
